Example 1:

An apparel importer in Detroit, Michigan has a flood at their warehouse, causing damage to the merchandise. Since the merchandise was damaged, it could not be sold. Having Storage Stock Throughput coverage, the apparel importer was able to recover the value of the damaged merchandise and continue with business as usual.

Example 2:

A power generator critical to a project in New York, New York is lost at sea on its way to the project site. With Project Cargo Delay in Start Up, the project would be covered for costs associated with business interruption from the missing power generator.

The United States is certainly a land of opportunity, however navigating through the emerging risks and exposures can be challenging. AXA's team of US professionals have the solutions that empower our clients to succeed.
